Nestled in a rural and suburban community along the Baltimore-Washington corridor, Marriotts Ridge draws students from varied neighborhoods who bring diverse interests to the school. To meet the needs and interests of all students, MRHS offers special programs that include but are not limited to Advanced Placement programs, Independent Research and Mentor programs, Project Lead the Way, and Special Education programs. The exceptional staff at Marriotts Ridge also teach a wide variety of core courses and electives in English, fine arts, mathematics, physical education, science, social studies, technology education and world languages. The staff promotes mutual respect, honor and integrity among the MRHS population. Parents are involved in their child's learning and support the school in groups such as the PTSA, Music Foundation, Boosters and the Mustang African-American Awareness Club. Community stakeholders work closely to create an environment that emphasizes characteristics important to leadership and good citizenry.

In addition to the academic curriculum, MRHS provides many co-curricular and extracurricular activities, including its award-winning art, band, choir, dance and drama programs; Student Government Association, Class Boards and Leadership Council; Culinary Science Academy; It's Academic, Math and Robotics Teams, World Language Clubs, Honor Societies and much more.
