Three panels featuring a combination of students, staff and parents will discuss ways to ensure diversity among student leadership by creating an inclusive and equitable environment in our schools.

The first panel will help frame the discussion by considering how to create an inclusive environment for all students. The second panel will explore ways to raise the student voice in order to impact positive change in their school community. The third panel will look at ways that students and staff at every Howard County school can ensure that the voice of the student body is equally represented by all backgrounds and interests.
